CAB Hooks and Hangers are used in the most demanding above and below ground applications around the globe. From oil pipelines on Alaska's North Slope to underground mines in Australia to chemical plants on the Gulf Coast, CAB has earned a reputation for manufacturing strong, durable cable support products. For over 40 years, electrical engineers have specified CAB hangers in the most demanding and corrosive environments around the world.

CAB manufactures thousands of varieties of cable support products. Many are custom made to the specifications of the customer or engineering company. Pictured below are just several varieties of CAB hangers that have proven popular with customers over the years. All CAB Hangers are available in any size desired for your project.
